BURTON HOUSE CHANGES HANDS

BORENSON BARBER SHOP AND VARIETY STORE MOVE

A number of changes are taking place among the business firms at the lower end of Main street. Rasmus Rasmussen has purchased the Burton Hotel from Mrs. Margaret Burton. Sorenson Bros. will move the Variety Store that is now occupying one part of the Fischer Bldg. to rooms of the same building, and Carl Sorenson will move his barber shop from the Burton Hotel building to the Fischer Building that is being vacated by the Variety Store. The change will give the Variety Store much additional floor space, which is badly needed in order to permit the proper display of the large stock they carry. Carl Sorenson says he intends to fix the new quarters up so that he will have a very attractive shop, clean and sanitary, and with modern equipment. Mr. Rasmussen hasn't fully determined just what he will do with the hotel, but believes he will operate it as a rooming house for a short time at least.

It would seem that a second class hotel should pay in Grayling. This is especially true in the summer time when the hotel is often times overbooked. And rooms in private homes are plentiful. The public needs just such a place as the Burton House to take care of the overflow and to accommodate those who cannot afford to pay first class hotel prices. For the past couple of years this place has been operated by Oliver B. Scott.

WOMAN'S CLUB NOTES

November 7, 1927

The first regular meeting for the year 1927-1928 was held Monday evening at the new meeting place, the Grayling Social club rooms over the Salling Hanson Company store.

Mrs. Anstett and Mrs. Cassidy were the hostesses for the evening. The program consisted of roll call, payment of dues, reading of the by-laws and the president's address.

Miss Margaret Hemmingson is the president for this year and she gave an unusually fine address. She extended a cordial welcome to all the members and offered her hearty cooperation at all times. Miss Hemmingson also informed the Club that the present club rooms were once the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rasmus Hanson and stated that she hoped that from them they might draw some inspiration.

After the business meeting a delicious two course lunch was served by the social committee: Mrs. Herliuf Sorenson, Mrs. E. J. Olson, Mrs. Frank Anstett, Mrs. Dell Walt and Mrs. Thorwald Peterson.

It was announced during the evening that Mrs. A. J. Joseph has been appointed by Herbert Hoover as the chairman of the Better Homes committee for this year.

November 14, 1927

The second regular meeting for the year 1927-28 was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Emil Giegling.

After the business meeting the club enjoyed a fine musical program arranged by Mrs. Giegling, Mrs. Roy Milnes and Mrs. Frank Tetu. Their first number was a trio, Pretty Barbara, which was very well rendered. Mrs. Milnes' topic was Indian music.

After a short introduction she sang three Indian songs. Her first was "In the Land of the Sky Blue Waters," by Cadman. This number is always a treat. She also sang two songs by Lieurance, "In my Bark Canoe" and "On Cherry Hill."

Mrs. Tetu's topic was Negro music. She read a very interesting paper on Negro music and then sang three songs arranged by William Arms Fisher, "Deep River," "Steal Away to Jesus" and "Swing Low Sweet Chariot."

Jazz music was fittingly demonstrated by Miss Marie Schmidt and her brother Howard Schmidt. They sang "Side by Side," a modern jazz number. Miss Marie then sang Russian Lullaby, one of the finer popular numbers by Irving Berlin.

DEER HUNTING SEASON OPENED TUESDAY

With the opening of the deer season this year there will be 55,000 rifles in the hands of as many hunters ready to drop a buck. This will be the largest number of hunters ever to be issued deer hunting licenses in Michigan.

Of this number, Director George R. Hogarth, of the state conservation department, says many are unaware of several vital changes made in the laws governing such hunting this year. These hunters become violators of the law in some instances without intent, yet the law cannot consider the intent, with a result that they are convicted and fined.

The changes, which though few, are important, can be summed up in the following brief statement: Section 4, Act 366, P. A. 1925, indicates that transporting deer, killed on a resident hunting license, by automobile outside of the state, is unlawful. Deer may be shipped outside of the state only on railroad when billed from one point in Michigan to another point in Michigan.

Camp Permit law makes no provision for shipping any part of a camp deer. The department has ruled, however, that any part of a camp deer, even though three-fourths may be shipped on camp seal and permit, providing head and skin of the animal is attached.

Act 87, P. A. 1927, prohibits the possession of a rifle in deer hunting areas, except during the open season on deer. Anyone holding a deer hunting license may transport rifle into deer camp five days previous to opening of season.

All the counties of the state south of town 20 north are closed to deer hunting, and north of that line the following counties are closed to deer hunting: Missaukee, Wexford, Manistee, Charlevoix and Emmet.

It might be of interest to know that this year as each hunter applies for his deer license, he is being handed a questionnaire postal card and is being asked to mail a card to the department, indicating what success he had, what he shot, location of deer, time of shooting, etc.

It might be of interest to know that there will be approximately 55,000 deer licenses sold. Also, it might be said that Mr. Hugh Green, chief conservation officer, has been working for the past week or ten days organizing a special force to cope with the situation during the deer hunting season, and many of the fire deputies will be pressed into service.

With a report from County Clerk Charles Gierke that around 600 deer licenses were issued means that Crawford county woods are infested by at least that many hunters. A good number of them are local hunters, while others are from other parts of the state. Deer hunting season like the opening of the fishing season brings back many of Grayling's old residents and many hearty handshakes are in order. Monday our streets were alive with red caps all busy buying provisions and ammunition for the opening day.

A steady downpour of rain Tuesday morning kept many from the woods, but most of them braved the storm and many came home with their coveted prize.

Ed. S. Chalker was lucky in getting a big bear for his part Tuesday. The following are among those whom we have learned have filled their licenses: Clarence VanAmburg, Claude Cardinal, Oscar Borchers.

GOOD FELLOWSHIP CLUB ENTERTAINS WITH DINNER

The members of the Goodfellowship club enjoyed a very beautifully appointed dinner at Shoppington Inn Monday evening. It was the opening affair for the club year and twenty members were in attendance.

The long table at which the guests were seated was most attractive, with a large centerpiece of marigolds, beehive chrysanthemums and baby breath. Tall orange tapers in black candle holders and miniature turkeys.

After dinner the ladies went to the home of Mrs. Oscar Schumann, where the evening was spent informally.

GRAYLING LODGE ENTERTAINS VISITORS

Grayling Lodge E. & A. M. was host to members of Grayling, Vanderbilt, Roscommon, and other lodges on Thursday night of last week when two candidates, Clarence Robertson and Andrew Jonson, were initiated.

The work in the third degree was conferred by the members of Grayling lodge, assisted by a number of the other lodges, and a lot of credit is due them for their able manner in which it was carried out. The Masonic lectures were given by Will Gurnalla of Roscommon lodge and as usual were masterfully presented.

The meeting concluded with a banquet when about fifty Masons gathered about the festive board and enjoyed a real feast.

Harold Jarmin, Master of Grayling lodge, acted as toastmaster and presented the following speakers: Frank DeLaMeter of Grayling, W. W. Lewis and Rev. Greenwood.

Mr. DeLaMeter gave an outline of the early history of Masonry and told some of the virtues of Masonry, much to the edification of the new members. Mr. Lewis, on behalf of Grayling lodge presented Charles Gothro with a gold watch chain with Masonic fob, in recognition of the service he had rendered the lodge by his lectures in the second degree. And Mr. Jarmin made the presentation of a fine Masonic ring to Will Gurnalla in recognition of his assistance to the lodge.

COLLINS LECTURE GIVEN GOOD ATTENDANCE

Talks of Subversive Movements in America

Peter W. Collins, of Boston, Mass., former United States industrial expert, American sociologist and lecturer, speaking Sunday night at the school auditorium under the auspices of Grayling Council, Knights of Columbus and American Legion Post, in the nation-wide and educational program of the Knights against Subversive movements in America, called on all Americans, irrespective of race or creed to stand loyally together in the cause of God and Country against the growing menace and spread of subversive movements in America.

In the course of his address Mr. Collins stated, as a result of his experience in over five thousand American communities, in every state in the United States, the outstanding dangers to America at the present time. He emphasized the danger of communism, intolerance, irreverence, and other destructive doctrines and subversive movements. He cited the world menace of communism in Russia, China, Nicaragua, and especially Mexico under Calles, and the menacing effects to the future of the United States in the destruction of the guarantees of life and liberty under Mexican communism. Mr. Collins declared that communism is a dictatorship that denies the sacred rights of humanity, prohibits liberty, freedom, protection of life and pursuit of happiness and scorns and rejects the God-given guarantees upon which civilization rests.

In a thorough analysis of the so-called constitution of Mexico and the thirty-three clauses of Article 130 of that constitution, Mr. Collins showed how this constitution carried into effect the doctrines of communism and repudiated the five great kinds of freedom: freedom of person, freedom of trial, freedom of worship, freedom of property.

Mr. Collins declared that there was only one other document in all the world like the Mexican constitution, and that is the constitution of Communist Russia. He said both came from the same source, from the fountain of communism, the Communist Manifesto of Marx, founder of Communism. He showed, from the Manifesto of Marx, how both Russia and Mexico had put into their constitutions the three principal doctrines of communism; the abolition of religion which Marx declared the opium of the people, the abolition of private property, and the abolition of the family and marriage. Today in Russia and Mexico, he declared, religion is abolished, the family and marriage are degraded, and ownership of private property is denied.

Mr. Collins cited the world wide propaganda of communism in the Sacco-Vanzetti case as an example of the effectiveness of its organization and the perniciousness of subversive propaganda. Mr. Collins emphasized communism as one of the most dangerous subversive movements threatening destruction of our civilization. He said the communist doctrine is synonymous with atheism, inasmuch as it had as its background the "materialistic conception of history."

The speaker then went on to show that although communism claimed that it came from the masses, this claim is false because the common people have an inherent love of God, which is instinctive in them. He referred to the leaders of communism in Russia from Stalin to Trotsky and said that not one of these leaders had come from the working classes.

In the course of his lecture, Mr. Collins called attention to the rampant propaganda today in many colleges and universities in America. He quoted questionnaires of some professors given to girl students to answer in regard to marriage and the family, and said these teachings were a serious menace to the character and morals of millions of American boys and girls. He emphasized the needs of morality and character building in education.

Mr. Collins declared that today there was a serious disregard of the principles and guarantees upon which our government rests. He said that much of this was due to the work of subversive movements. He said the blasting and bombing of the constitution must stop and called on all Americans, worthy of the name, to co-operate in stopping it.

Mr. Collins explained the great guarantees of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. He quoted in detail from the articles and preamble of the constitution and said that, with the Holy Bible, the constitution ought to become the bedside companion of every American family, to know, to love, to appreciate, to respect and to observe.

In closing, Mr. Collins called for a recognition of the great principles and ideals of the brotherhood of man and said that the foundation of such brotherhood rested on the Fatherhood of God.

There was a good sized audience out to hear Mr. Collins, who spoke for an hour, during which time he held his audience in undivided attention.

A few citizens called at the hotel earlier in the evening to meet Mr. Collins, where they enjoyed together a chicken dinner.

SECOND NUMBER ON LYCEUM COURSE

This Number to Take Place at High School Auditorium Tomorrow Evening

The Great Laurant, the man of many mysteries, and his show of wonders, is an attraction with an unusually wide appeal.

Laurant, with his delightful personality and marvelous dexterity, has brought to the art of magic that high degree of perfection which always charms an audience.

His program is a succession of interesting surprises. There are beautiful flowers, magnificent rainbow silks, mysterious fountains of fire and water followed by the appearance of cooing doves, quacking geese and the inevitable magic rabbits. There are also scientific problems and lightning character impersonations.

With the revival of many of the ancient mysteries and the inclusion of the latest modern effects, Laurant's program is a veritable resume of the whole history of magic. Indeed, one critic has called this reveal in the Land of Mysteries "The Outline of Magic."

Because of the popularity of this number it will be held at the school auditorium. The date is tomorrow, Friday, Nov. 18.

Here are some commendatory notices from the leading dailies:

"Laurant has stamped himself on the minds of the public as a magician of the first water. His feats in magic were all skillfully executed, and his audience delighted."—Chicago Tribune.

"Laurant is a magician of more than ordinary skill. His wonderful art of palming was excellent."—Denver News.

"Laurant and his magic were in every sense high class and artistic, clever and mystifying."—Omaha World Herald.

"Laurant puzzled and delighted the audience with his unique feats in magic. All who saw him last night will be glad to see him again."—New Orleans Picayune.

"Laurant is as entertaining as he is skillful. His tricks were performed with bewildering ease and success."—San Francisco Examiner.

ELECTRIC CO. PROMISES IMPROVED SERVICE

Information has reached this office that the Michigan Public Service Corporation is planning on improving the electric service in Grayling.

Considerable annoyance has been experienced by local users by low voltage and by the fading and frequent flickerings that at times nearly go out entirely. This is due, it is said by one of the employees of the Company, to the wiring being too light for the load they have to carry.

These are to be replaced with the proper size wiring after which, our informant said, Grayling will have wonderful service and all the electricity it can possibly hope to use.

We are sure this will be glad news to the local patrons.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1927

THIS IS NATIONAL BOOK WEEK.

National Book week—November 13-19—is being observed in many cities this week. Programs are being given under auspices of the Federated Women's clubs of America. The movement is intended to inspire on the part of children the reading of good books.

Much stress is placed upon the starting children into the right path in their selection of the book they read and to inspire a love for the child classics. The idea is that a child having learned to love and enjoy the reading of good books will continue to appreciate good literature. Too often children are misguided in the selection of the books they read and all thru their lives low grade or mediocre literary tastes are firmly rooted and are difficult to overcome in later years. There are many beautiful stories to be had for our juveniles and every parent should see to it that such are the kinds that come into the homes. Such stories open the gates to where the classics await and where wonder is in store for the student and for adults. The art of enjoyment in literature can only come to him who has first learned to understand it and who knows how to reap the wealth and beauty that is intended by the great writers.

The world is filled with wishy-washy literature, the most of which should never have gone into print. Cheap magazines and sex appeal stories, that find their ways into circulation, only rob their readers of the power to comprehend and enjoy the thrills and beauty of the classics. The love and knowledge of good literature opens the doors to social and industrial circles that are barred against the reveler in the poor or harmful books that are so abundant and so largely read. Unless one starts early in life to read good literature, the taste and power of conception for the better kinds is seldom gained in later life.

So therefore, during National Book week, let us, as parents, try to give better consideration toward the selection of the reading matter for our children. Place good books before them and encourage them in reading.

Both the Township and school libraries are well supplied with good books for juveniles. It was the plan of the Good Fellowship club to have published the list of juvenile books that may be secured at these places. Owing to illness in the home of the Township librarian she was unable to supply us with the list of such books from that library. However we are presenting on the first page a list of juvenile books that may be secured from the School library. For this we are grateful to the teacher-members of the Good Fellowship club under whose sponsorship the list was procured.

Study the list and see that beginning with this week—National Book week—that your children are given the benefits afforded by good books.

SLANDERING PUBLIC OFFICIALS.

Probe before you publish would be a pertinent motto for editors to adopt. It would apply not only to the generous supply of free publicity material and propaganda that reaches the editor's desk, but also to the communications that appear authentic enough on their face but reflect injuriously on the reputations of men in public life. The recent letter broadcast by one, Marcus W. Robbins, designed to malign Herbert Hoover, is a case in point. Robbins is an extreme socialist who delights in attacking public men. He is a lawyer who was the defender of the I. W. W. in San Diego during the troubles there in 1912. The reasoning advanced in his letters was so absurd and so far out of accord with Herbert Hoover's record that it is surprising any editor would swallow it, yet that is just what several Minnesota editors did. They thereby virtually became accessories in the crime of libeling an official who deserves better treatment from every fair-minded American.—Northfield (Minn.) News.

THE DRY AND WET CONTRO-VERSY GOES ON

After about ten years of prohibition, there still seems to be a difference of opinion as to its merits. Two weeks ago the mayor of Detroit seeking another term, openly scoffed at the possibility of enforcing the Volstead Act in Detroit. Mayor Johnny Smith's stand may be considered local, however. In Al Smith, present governor of New York, there is also an avowed candidate for the presidency who is also an avowed wet. Not so long ago Senator Couzens, a man true to his convictions, has said that the present prohibition law is making a nation of hypocrites.

All these views we have taken for what they are worth. Each was the opinion of one man. Yet in some of these cases it was a pretty good indication of the sentiment of a large number of people. Public men generally do not flout public opinion, especially in their own locality. In the case of one Detroit newspaper, the Free Press, its policy was editorially announced as changed from dry to wet—advocating a modification in the Volstead law.

Last the result of a poll of the liquor question conducted among twenty-five Protestant Episcopal clergymen showed a rather startling sentiment. A tabulation of the vote surveys:

Is prohibition a success in your locality? Yes, 446; No, 745.

Have you had this law long enough for a fair trial? Yes, 950; No, 621.

Regardless of one's attitude toward the use of liquor, do you believe a prohibition law offers the best solution to the problem of intemperance? Yes, 624; No, 1,138.

Should the Volstead act be modified? Yes, 1,032; No, 538.

Should the Eighteenth amendment be repealed? Yes, 825; No, 793.

Here in Clinton county seldom if ever hear a public speaker advocate the repeal of the Volstead act. This county and this state is overwhelmingly dry, barring Wayne county and some of the industrial centers. Yet there is no denying the fact that a large number of sincere men believe prohibition is a failure—and they are not drunken cots or members of the underworld. The result of the vote given came from about 5,000 clergymen. The questionnaire was sent to 5,000, half of whom did not reply. What they thought is unknown. Likely the percentage of opinions among those who did not reply was similar to those who did.

So the controversy goes merrily on. The country is not so dry and conditions are not as ideal as the ardent dry advocate would have you believe. Conditions are not as bad and the country is not as wet as the radical wet pictures it. Drunken men no longer lurk up and down the village streets on Saturday nights, frightening women and making beasts of themselves publicly. If they get drunk they at least stay out of sight.

To say that there is no drinking or no liquor sold is also wide of the mark. Hardly a week goes by that the sheriff does not pick up one or two intoxicated persons. The old theory that whiskey was responsible for all crime and that jails and prisons would be empty when prohibition was put in force has not worked out. Crime has increased in greater ratio than the population and the prisons are filled to overflowing.

Crime and lawlessness cannot be charged against intoxicating liquor to any great extent. It is a fact criminals generally do drink. That we believe is incidental rather than an important factor to crime and immorality. It would seem that conditions after ten years of prohibition would almost conclusively prove it.

The danger of any modification of the present laws would lie in its psychology, rather than the actual release of liquors of alcoholic content. It would be halfhearted. Indulgent America would never stop at the provisions of a modified law any more than they are now willing to abide by the present bone-dry law. Outside of the fact that the present law makes hypocrites and law breakers out of a great many respected citizens who occasionally take a drink, it probably is the best solution that can be made.

Yes, there is a great deal of hypocrisy in regard to this question. It is not confined to one side of the controversy. Altogether it is more despicable and strikes deeper at the roots of upright, square-shooting American ideals than does an occasional drink of liquor.

It is lamentable that this law is proving so difficult to enforce that even a dry clergy doubt its benefits. Every expression such as given in the above mentioned vote tends to increase the difficulty. It gives ground for belief that the American people too often go too far in their demands for reform legislation.—Clinton Co. Republican News.

SPORTSMEN TO HOLD BANQUET

At the meeting called for last week Wednesday night for the purpose of giving the sportsmen and others who are interested in conservation an opportunity to meet Hon. H. A. Savage, it was decided to hold a sportsmen's banquet soon.

Mr. Savage, who is state president of the Isaak Walton League, has promised to attend the meeting himself and also to bring along Walter Hastings, a noted sport writer, of some other well known sportsman to speak to us. He also promised a number of reels of wild life pictures; all new to the people of Grayling.

Mr. Savage gave an excellent talk telling of some of the things the League is doing and of the big program that is ahead of them. Mr. Savage says there should be a large number of League chapters in Northern Michigan, to show local interest, but maintained that the sportsmen and others of Southern Michigan, especially those in the larger cities, should bear the burden of costs of the work of the League by organizing large chapters. These people, he said, come here to enjoy our fishing and hunting and to reveal among the beauty places and wild woods places that are ours but where they are always welcome. These places have to be maintained, taxes have to be paid and those who use them, said Mr. Savage, should help to support them.

He also strongly advocated a law compelling the payment of a rod license. This should be small, he maintained, and he believed nobody would object to the cost. Due notice will be given of the time and place of holding the proposed sportsmen's banquet.

FRESHENING BREEZES

In refusing to return to domesticity, Ruth Elder serves notice there will be no more flights over a pan of dishwater.

Now that the people of Detroit will no longer be permitted to spend their money in the blind pigs perhaps they won't kick so much over paying that extra cent of gas tax.

We hope Mr. Holsapple had no thought of a return of the Christmas spirit when he tried to get that bootlegger out of prison the other day.

King Ben has much to be thankful for. Suppose he had been ousted down in Mexico?

In mapping out a definite program, the Conservation department needs only follow all the suggestions made by the sportsmen's organizations.

The supreme court having ruled that railroads be no longer compelled to furnish the cable, we wonder what is to become of the families of the goofs who try to beat the train to the crossing?

Speaking of long treks backward, will anybody ever forget the return of the Ford?

We hope the professional drys won't overlook the fact that Minnesota is going to try and take the "little brown jug" back with them next Saturday.

And Now In Closing

A race between a motor and a locomotive with a grade crossing as the goal may possess its elements of excitement, but it is not conducive to longevity and the practice should be discouraged, even though arrest may be necessary in order to drive common sense into foolish people.

Election Day Results in New York, Detroit and Elsewhere.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

G. O. AL SMITH'S stock as a Presidential nominee possibly, already pretty high, took quite a jump as a result of the elections in New York state. The Democratic organizations elected nearly all their candidates in the metropolitan district, but the party's biggest victory was constitutional amendments. The governor opposed the sixth of these, to lengthen the term of the governor to four years and hold the state elections in Presidential years, and this was defeated by a huge majority. The other eight proposed amendments, all supported by Smith, went over by big votes. One of them raises the debt limit of New York city so that additional bonds for $300,000,000 may be issued for new subway construction. The adoption of this was considered a personal victory for Mayor Walker.

Detroit's exciting majority election resulted in the defeat of Mayor John W. Smith, an avowed enemy of prohibition, by John C. Lodge, the candidate of the Anti-Saloon league and other reform organizations on a bone dry program. However, the glee of the drys was somewhat tempered when Mr. Lodge, who had maintained silence during the campaign, asserted that he was absolutely free from obligations and pledges, and continued:

"This wet and dry matter was dragged into the campaign. It was never an issue. We can have orderly law enforcement without asking the aid or advice of the professional drys, with the emphasis on 'professional.' There will be positively no 'snapping.'"

In Ohio the Anti-Saloon league met with defeat when the voters rejected the Marshall bill which would place justices of the peace on a fee salary basis and thereby give them authority to hear and decide cases involving infractions of the prohibition laws.

Lovers of horse racing and those who like to bet on the ponies rejoiced in the victory of Judge Flem D. Sampson, Republican, over J. C. W. Beckham, Democrat, for governor of Kentucky. The winner made his campaign as a friend of racing, and the loser was opposed to it and to pari-mutuel betting, and the Kentucky Jockey club took a most active part in the fight.

Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania scored in Philadelphia, where his campaign manager, Harry A. Mackey, was elected mayor, defeating J. Hampton Moore, Citizens' party candidate. But this may involve Mr. Vare in a new slush fund scandal, for the Citizens' party council asserts that the Vare forces expended "approximately $1,000,000" and crowded the polls with watchers and workers, "some of whom not only intimidated voters but doled out copious allowances of $10 notes and dispensed liquid refreshments lavishly." Wherefore the council may seek to invalidate the election.

At this writing it appears certain that James Rolph, Jr., was re-elected mayor of San Francisco, defeating James E. Power.

Indiana's new mayor, who will serve until 1930, when the city manager system goes into effect. He is L. E. Slack, former United States district attorney, and he was elected by the city council to fill the unexpired term of John Duval, who resigned after conviction of corrupt practices. Slack at times has served as an attorney for the Klan and for the Anti-Saloon league. He is personally a dry. His friends point out he is not a klanism, and that his sole income has always been his legal fees.

OL is being spattered all over the place down in Washington, where the grand jury is investigating the alleged attempts to fix the Fall-Salclair jury or to subject the jurors to improper surveillance. William J. Burns, head of the detective agency whose operatives were employed by persons acting for the defense, sought to justify the actions of his men, asserting that the defense had the same right to shadow and observe jurors as the prosecution has. An apparent attempt to start a back-bite was the charge made by Burns' men that a young assistant attorney general had had improper contact with one of the jurors, but this fell through. A. M. Sloan Day and Sheldon Clark, Sinclair company officials who were charged with directing the operations of the detectives and receiving their reports, refused to testify before the grand jury as to who actually hired and paid the investigators and what relationship existed between them and Harry Sinclair. Both Day and Clark were arrested and held under bonds. Every Burns operative who was sent to Washington for the Teapot Dome job was quizzed by the government prosecutors in the effort to establish the identity of two strangers who approached J. R. J. Costinette and G. P. Grenfall, as related by those two men to the grand jury.

SEVERAL thousand residents of the Mississippi valley, with Mayor Thompson of Chicago and a big delegation of his admirers at their head, went to Washington and presented the house committee their demands for comprehensive flood control legislation. Mr. Thompson, Governor Small of Illinois, Mayor O'Keefe of New Orleans and a number of others addressed the committee, and while no specific legislative program was proposed there was agreement among the speakers that the federal government must assume complete responsibility for the adoption of a program to avert future flood disasters on the Mississippi. Willingness was expressed for the most part to support whatever program might be recommended by the army engineers. There was insistence that other legislative projects,

While in the national capital Mayor Thompson reached an agreement with General Jadin, army chief of engineers, in Chicago's water meter dispute with the government.

NEW ENGLAND'S floods, which spread death and disaster throughout several states, are subsiding, but the conditions in the stricken regions are so serious that President Coolidge and the Red Cross were asked to go to the rescue. Bitterly cold weather, impassable roads, shortage of food supplies and threatened outbreaks of pestilence combined to render the situation of the people desperate. About 150 lives were lost in the floods, and the damage to property probably will run far into the millions. Farmers lost great quantities of live stock and in many cases all their buildings were swept away. In cities and towns along the rivers the losses of both lives and property were heavy.

CONTRACTS calling for the construction of eight Atlantic cargo airplanes, similar to the one piloted across the Pacific to Hawaii by Lieutenant Maitland and Hegenberger, have been let by the War department. The planes will cost approximately $35,000 apiece. They are tri-motored monoplanes, with a capacity of ten persons to each plane.

FROM native sources comes the story of the heroic fight and tragic death of Lieut. E. A. Thomas and Sergt. Frank Dowdell, American marine aviators who were killed by Nicaraguan rebels several weeks ago. When their plane crashed they escaped unhurt and made their way toward Jicaral, capturing two prisoners whom they met. One of these men suddenly attacked one of the marines with a machete, severely wounding him. The other marine shot the rebel dead, but the other prisoner fled and carried word of the happening to Sandino. The outlaw leader sent a force that trapped the marines in a cave. In the desperate fight that followed the Americans killed a number of the guerrillas before they were themselves shot to death.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jerome returned from their western trip the last of the week, tired but happy. We believe more men went hunting from here last Sunday than attended church.

If we had taken 5,000 cords of wood on subscriptions last winter and kept it until now, we would have been rich, but we didn't.

We celebrated our 51st birthday last Saturday, and King Edward his, on Sunday. We have always been one day ahead of the "effete monarch."

Rev. H. Goldie attended a ministerial meeting at Bay City last week and Mrs. Goldie took the time of his absence to visit her parents at Wolvaine.

Prof. F. W. Lankenaw, a former superintendent of our schools, died at his home in Bay City Tuesday, Nov. 4, from paralysis. His wife and two children survive him.

Rev. H. Goldie was ready for the hunting season early Monday morning. His brother came up from Sterling to see that he didn't get lost in the woods.

A. L. Pond got a running shot at a deer last Saturday, but he did not get the deer. He went back the next day to look after the deer he had wounded and found it dead within twenty rods from where he shot it.

S. S. Claggett went to Toledo last week and came home with his wife, whose health seems to be greatly improved by her treatment at the sanatorium in that city. Her friends are glad to think her recovery will be rapid and perfect.

Attention of downstaters is called to the fact that Alpena, Alcona and Roscommon counties, three of the "pine barren" counties, showed the best exhibit of grain, fruit and vegetables in fact everything that they took to the state fair. In fact the northern farmer made his southern brother wonder if after all them "pine barren fellers" hadn't got the best farms.

RED CROSS FLOOD RELIEF IN SOUTH COSTS $17,000,000

Greatest Disaster of History but One of 111 Operations in Year of Calamity.

Tornadoes headed the list of disasters which struck the United States in the past year, the report of Red Cross relief operations for the year ending June 30, showing 29 great storms. Floods were second on the list, 24 being recorded for the same period.

This record does not include the St. Louis tornado which occurred in the current fiscal year, as did a number of other storms and disasters since in which the Red Cross provided relief.

Included in the list of 111 disasters covered by the record of the past year's relief operations of the Red Cross, are earthquakes, explosions, mine disasters, a cloudburst, a hail-storm, fires, floods, hurricanes, a railroad wreck, a scarlet fever epidemic, typhoid epidemic, tornadoes, and a typhoon. The latter occurred in the Philippines, but is included in the operations at home. In all, the Red Cross extended its services in 77 major disasters in the United States and in 20 abroad, including a hurricane over Havana, Cuba, and the Isle of Pines, one in the Bahamas, and others during various West Indian regions, fire in Porto Rico, another in Haiti, earthquakes in Armenia, Japan and Albania, floods in Jugo Slavia and Mexico.

The organization conducted refugee relief operations in Syria, Bulgaria and China, the latter largely due to factional wars fought over various parts of China the past year.

The two outstanding disasters at home were the Florida hurricane and the Mississippi Valley flood. Rehabilitation operations of the latter disaster are still in progress under the Red Cross. A national appeal for funds was made in both disasters, resulting in contributions for relief amounting to more than $20,000,000.

The Mississippi flood is the outstanding disaster in the whole history of the Red Cross disaster relief service. In this one catastrophe the organization raised through subscriptions by the people of the country and foreign nations approximately $17,000,000 for relief use. Aided by this fund it fed, clothed, sheltered or otherwise assisted more than 600,000 human beings, fed and cared for approximately 200,000 head of livestock and established 149 refugee camps. The flood inundated approximately 20,000 square miles and affected 174 counties in eight states. Some 330,000 homeless persons were sheltered in Red Cross camps. When the emergency was at its height the Red Cross was serving more than a million meals a day.

So vast was the work imposed on the Red Cross and allied agencies conducting rehabilitation that this phase of the flood relief task is expected to extend well into the coming year. Up to September 15, 104,441 families in the flood zone had been given rehabilitation assistance by the Red Cross, and 1,700,000 acres of flooded crop land in seven states had been replanted with Red Cross aid. There had been expenditure or commitment for expenditure of $15,560,000.

The appeal for a nation-wide membership increased to 5,000,000 adult members, it was pointed out, is based on the realization that demands on Red Cross service such as occasioned by disaster relief are increasing each year. For that reason special importance is lent to the Eleventh Annual Roll Call of the organization, to be held from Armistice Day, November 11, to Thanksgiving, November 24, during which this membership will be built up.

14 Disasters at One Time Call for Red Cross Work

The great size of a disaster does not necessarily mean that it has the stage to itself.

The American Red Cross relief forces were impressed with this fact during the Mississippi Valley flood in recent months. While the relief forces were struggling with this greatest of all disasters in United States history, from April to June they were obliged to furnish relief in 21 other emergencies, including 11 tornadoes. In one tornado approximately 17,000 persons were assisted.

At one period the Red Cross was conducting relief operations in 14 disasters simultaneously, scattered over a wide territory.

Citing the continuity of demands on the organization's resources, Chairman John Barton Payne of the Red Cross has announced the need of 5,000,000 adult members as a result of the Roll Call, Nov. 11 to 24.

The Tenth Anniversary of America's entry into the World War in 1917, is an appropriate time to join the American Red Cross and participate through membership in its peace-time services. Join during the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24.

Thanksgiving

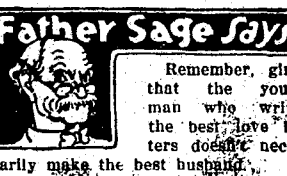

The observance of Thanksgiving Day should bring happiness and enjoyment to every home in the land. It is peculiarly a family day, and the name itself brings back memories of the old home and the table laden with good things. It is a day linked with pleasant memories, with traditions purely American.

The day also is and should be looked upon with thoughtful reverence. Our forefathers celebrated the first Thanksgiving not only with a feast—there were prayers and sermons and songs of praise. These sturdy pioneers laid the foundations of our greatness as a nation and our happiness as individuals by reason of the strength of their religious convictions. We, too, will grow in greatness and happiness in proportion as we remain faithful to their ideals. It is fitting that we should, in humble recognition of the goodness of Almighty God, who has dealt so bountifully with us, celebrate this day reverently and joyfully.

In compliance, therefore, with the custom of our forefathers and in conformity with the proclamation of the President, I hereby designate Thursday, November 24, 1927, as a day of public thanksgiving.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State this twelfth day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, and the Commonwealth the ninety first.

FRED W. GREEN,
Governor.
JOHN S. HAGGERTY,
Secretary of State.

PATIENCE
By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

I HAVE just read an account of a recent speech of Governor Brewster of Maine with reference to the development of prohibition in his state, which, according to the statement quoted, it took 25 years to perfect. For years after the prohibition act was passed, the situation seemed hopeless. The sentiment in the state was almost equally divided; officers were elected who, if not pledged to ignore the law, at least made it clear that they would do so. And yet constantly the sentiment grew in favor of enforcement, officials in time became more strict, and ultimately prohibition became a fact; and today the law is rigidly enforced as Governor Brewster is convinced it will in due time, if we will be patient and keep after it, be true of national prohibition. The law has not failed, and he is sure it will not fail. Time is all that is necessary to prove this. We are impatient when an effort for a project, or an innovation, does not at once succeed.

I am reminded in this connection of my old professor of German. Most of us in his classes had little familiarity with any language excepting our own, and in many cases even English as it should be spoken was something near a foreign tongue. We were getting on very badly with our translations, and when it came to pronunciation, the situation was little less than hopeless. But he was a patient old man and an experienced one.

"It will come," he used to say to the stammering, halting farmer boy. "It will come. Patience and work will do it. It will come."

The old man's words have given me courage many a time during the years which have intervened since those far-away days. When I have worked at something or with somebody for a long time without seeming to get anywhere, and faith and patience are about gone, I recall the encouraging words of my old teacher, "Keep at it, and it will come."

Habits are not easily changed; custom and tradition have a tremendous hold on us, and when we attempt to change these we must not look for immediate nor for complete success. It was my job years ago to eliminate having from the institution with which I was connected. It had been the custom, for I do not know how many years, to heap upon the poor freshman as soon as he got to the campus all sorts of indignities. There was no malice in it, it was just fun; but the people who needed such treatment usually escaped, and those who were shy and self-conscious and in need of encouragement, and friends, were most likely to receive the harsh introduction to college life. The college was being injured very much by the practice, and it was generally agreed that it should be stopped. There were definite rules against it; the difficulty was in enforcing them. It took five years to make any definite impression and ten to wipe out the practice. For a long time it seemed as if no progress were being made at all.

It is so with every reform; but if we keep at the thing with patience and intelligence and persistence, it will come.

HOW TIMBER FIRES OFTEN START

HOW TO PREVENT FIRES

1 Matches—Be sure your match is out. Break it in two before you throw it away.

2 Tobacco—Be sure that pipe ashes and cigar or cigarette stubs are dead before throwing them away. Never throw them into brush, leaves or needles.

3 Making Camp—Before building a fire scrape away all inflammable material from a spot 1 foot in diameter. Dig a hole in the center and in it build your camp fire. Keep your fire small. Never build it against trees or logs or near brush.

4 Breaking Camp—Never break camp until your fire is out—dead out.

5 Brush Burning—Never burn slash or brush in windy weather or while there is the slightest danger that the fire will get away.

A carelessly left campfire—a carelessly thrown match or spark—may mean acres of timber destroyed in a few hours. Only decades of slow growth will replace the loss.

Pine forests catch fire easily. Many travelers from states where there are no forests, or only hardwood forests, do not realize that our northern woods, composed largely of highly inflammable pine, will burn so easily. The underlying bed of leaves and dry pine needles acts like tinder in carrying fire from a spark dropped in it. Fires creep underneath this forest floor and appear in distant places.

Be careful! Help preserve the forest treasures for everybody's use.

No other car in its field exerts such a powerful appeal as the Pontiac Six—because no other car in its field combines superior six-cylinder performance with the superiorities of Fisher bodies in beauty, comfort and construction. . . . That's why Pontiac Six success is the talk of the town—why people are coming to our showrooms every day—driving the car—and stepping from behind the wheel, amazed that such true motor-luxury now costs so little to enjoy!

New lower prices on all body types (Effective July 15th): Coupe, $745; Sport Roadster, $745; Sport Cabriolet, $745; Landau Sedan, $745; De Luxe Landau Sedan, $745; The New Oakland All-American Six, $1045 to $1265. Riding From Coast to Coast

Miss Vancell Viking is riding from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific coast on her beautiful horse "Broadway." She is seen above about to start on the trip from the city hall in New York, after, being received by Mayor Walker. The incentive for her undertaking is a wage of $25,000 that she made with the marquis of Donegal at a recent dinner party in London, that she could make the trip in 100 days.

HealthNews

By County Nurse

Every school but one has been visited by the nurse.

There are three schools yet to inspect.

Two schools are closed for at least two weeks because of infantile paralysis.

Health training in the schools by Theresa Dancade should be in every school library.

Temperature and ventilation are being discussed by the pupils.

Crawford county will soon be 100 per cent Junior Red Cross.

In doing Junior Red Cross work it is not advised that the pupils do extra work, but to check up on the work other schools.

When a child cuts out had a little lamb or "children should not touch strange dogs" showing or illustrating health along with free hand drawing, others are interested, too, to know how and why illustrative material can be used as health material.

So in the Junior Red Cross work we are asking for free hand drawing or sketch books to exchange in other schools.

The Christmas boxes sent to a foreign country by the Grayling school arrived safely in New York Oct. 29, and from there they are sent to a school in a foreign country by the national R. C.

We urge the correction of defects and the practice of good health habits such as brushing the teeth, keeping clean, standing erect.

Daily inspection by the teacher is very interesting. One room has a ball field on the wall. Every day this room plays ball. The cleanest, most cheerful and healthy child makes a home run. The one who has performed the most health chores makes a touchdown, some only get to first base, some do not get in to bat. But by next inspection more will make better score. The room is gaining in health score because they have a goal to reach and the goal is healthy children.

Probably no field of education has gained more originality or vitality than that of health education. The goal of health education is healthy children. Experiments have been made not only by individual teachers but by groups of teachers on a large scale. In this pioneer field certain ideals and principles have "merited approval."

Some kind of inspection of children to find out if they have cleaned their teeth, slept with their windows open, drunk a quart of milk a day and eaten green vegetables is made frequently, sometimes daily, in the schools of Crawford county so that health habits may be formed.

The time required will vary with the kind of homes the children come from and their previous training. From five to ten minutes daily is usually necessary for such inspection or appreciations.

Many teachers are finding splendid opportunities to impress ideas of health by correlating the health work with other subjects of the school curriculum. The subject matter of language, drawing, arithmetic and manual training is often illuminated with health material. Making health posters or booklets, writing health rhymes or compositions on actual work done. All such activities help to vitalize the regular school subjects as well as promote health knowledge and habits.

Miss Sena Anderson visited Crawford county and was with the nurse in many schools and homes. Miss Anderson is the field representing nurse from the midwestern branch of the American Red Cross in St. Louis, Mo.

The regional meeting at Traverse City was attended by Mrs. Keeran. The program was very interesting and helpful. More of the committee would have been appreciated.

Three schools in Crawford county are closed because of contagious diseases.

MACKINAW CITY STATE PARK POPULAR

(By E. M. T. Service.)

Michillimackinac State Park, located at the tip of the lower peninsula at Mackinaw City, is probably the most popular camp for the tourists in the state.

The 1927 attendance at this camp indicated that the popularity of this camp is steadily increasing. The registry book, located in the center of the camp near the pavilion, is an interesting log. Registrations include persons from every state in the union, China, Germany and Scotland. Drama and comedy can be read in some of the messages jotted alongside the names of the guests. Some leave messages for those who are following, giving directions as to their itinerary. Others tell of the abandonment of the tour, due to calls home because of sickness, death or other troubles.

Sanilac County Shore Property Soars

(By E. M. T. Service.)

Appreciations in Huron shore realty in Sanilac county are concretely illustrative of the effect which the demand for resort property is having in this section, according to reports issued there. One piece of realty which sold not long ago for $12,000, recently brought $25,000. Another plot jumped from $15,000 to $15,000 on a single sale. A piece of realty purchased by the parent for $500 was sold recently by the son in several parcels for a total of $72,000. While these figures were being given out to the reporter, a local resident who was listening, said, "I sold a piece of shore property a few months ago for $10,000. A few weeks later, realizing my mistake, I went to the purchaser, who resided in Detroit, and offered him $20,000 for the same property. He laughed at me, saying he had just refused a $75,000 offer for the property."

Sanilac county supervisors cannot see their way clear to subscribe to the organization which is bringing about through its publicity this situation.

Points in Bell Making

The art of bell making is one requiring a high degree of technical skill. The amounts of various metals and alloys, the sizes and weights of the bells must all be calculated to a nicety to produce the musical sound necessary to an acceptable tone.

RED CROSS ADVANCES IN HEALTH PROTECTION

Record for Progress is Made in Protection of People of Vast Flooded Section.

Record health protective activities marked the year's service of the American Red Cross in this field. The outstanding health accomplishment was the successful conclusion of the emergency health program launched as part of the relief work in the Mississippi Valley flood. In co-operation with State and Federal health agencies, the Red Cross successfully conducted a campaign designed to prevent epidemics as a result of flood conditions.

Thousands were immunized against typhoid and smallpox; preventive measures against malaria were undertaken, and as the flood receded an intensive clean-up program was set in motion to purify water supplies, provide sanitary surroundings of rural communities and complete other health protective steps.

Beside the emergency work, the Red Cross Public Health Nursing Service developed about 100 new community nursing and health services throughout the country. Nurse instructors and others operating under the Red Cross also extended training in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick to both adult and junior groups, the latter in educational institutions in certain instances. Every State, Alaska, the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines, Porto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, had Home Hygiene classes which showed a large increase.

One contribution to national health achieving a growing recognition is the nutrition instruction service, through which thousands of adults and school children are learning the proper foods for health and the fundamentals of correct food habits in relation to health. Classes include housewives, school children, foster-mothers, policewomen, women having charge of homes and institutions, business girls and students in universities and colleges.

Besides these direct services for better health, the Red Cross enrolls reserve of funds amounting to more than 45,000. These reserves are available for disaster relief service, epidemics and other serious emergencies, and are on call for duty with the Army, Navy and the Veterans' Bureau.

Red Cross health services are increasing in scope, it is pointed out, in calling attention to the forthcoming enrollment of new members in the Red Cross ranks, through whose support all Red Cross activities are made possible. The enrollment will take place from November 11 to 24.

Junior Red Cross Army of 6,000,000 in Schools

Members of the Junior Red Cross proved a new capacity for service during the Mississippi flood, according to reports to Red Cross National Headquarters covering their work. This group of enthusiastic school children responded spontaneously and generously to the needs of the flood victims. An indication of the importance of this help is contained in the report that Juniors in Boston contributed $7,500 to the relief fund.

Junior Red Cross members shared in reconstruction work in the Midwest tornados several years ago, after the Florida storm, and are in the post-flood operations of the Red Cross among the people in the Mississippi Valley.

Junior Red Cross has 5,822,757 members, an increase of 273,329 in the last year.

More than a million of the Junior Red Cross membership is distributed in the Philippines, Hawaii, Guam, Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Alaska, and includes Indian and Eskimo children. Through the medium of the Junior Red Cross in the United States, and similar groups abroad, children all over the world are being brought into closer understanding by international correspondence carried on by classes in the schools.

The Juniors at present have nearly twice the membership of the senior organization, but in the forthcoming membership enrollment of the Red Cross, from November 11 to 24, the goal of the adult membership is 5,000,000.

Foreign Calls for Help Answered by Red Cross

Despite the unusual requirements of relief in 77 disasters within the United States, the people of the country, through the American Red Cross, extended relief to sufferers in 20 disasters in foreign lands.

These included hurricanes in the West Indies, devastating portions of Cuba, Santo Domingo, Porto Rico, the Isle of Pines, the Bahamas, and other islands in the group; fires in Haiti and Porto Rico; floods in Mexico and Yugoslavia; earthquakes in Japan, the Azores Islands, Armenia and Albania, and refugee relief operations in Bulgaria, Syria, and China.

During the Eleventh Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24, the American Red Cross will seek a membership of 5,000,000 to keep its disaster relief and other services constantly ready for any call.

Airdrome Must Be Square

An airdrome must be square in shape, points Capt. Elliott White Springs, aviator, in Liberty, because a plane in taking off from the ground might be faced into the wind, to prevent side pressure turning it over.

Red Cross Meets Heavy Demand for Water Safety Duty

Trained lifeguards in the United States, qualified by the Red Cross as experts in all phases of water safety, number 134,537 adults and juniors, according to the Life-Saving Service of the American Red Cross, which reported 32,508 trained and qualified in the past year. This number does not include other thousands who were taught to swim.

Training courses conducted by the Red Cross last summer brought out a uniformly high standard of proficiency. In addition, more than 20 winter training courses were conducted the past year. Swimming "institutes" at camps in Arizona, California, Indiana, Massachusetts, New York, North Carolina, Missouri, Oregon, Washington, and Wisconsin, "splash weeks" and swimming and life-saving campaigns under Red Cross auspices held in many States aroused great interest.

"The experience gained during the last few years indicates that the dangers involved in water sports can be eliminated through training and by the adoption of water safety methods," a recent Red Cross report stated. "When our communities provide sufficient swimming pools, bathing beaches, and skating places, and furnish trained leaders under whose guidance both adults and children may enjoy themselves in safety, the number of preventable deaths through drowning will be greatly reduced."

The Red Cross is endeavoring to supply trained leaders in water safety so far as its facilities permit. To increase the effectiveness of this and other services, the Eleventh Annual Roll Call, from November 11 to 24, will urge an enrollment of 5,000,000.

The American Red Cross will ask an enrollment of 5,000,000 members for the coming year, during the Annual Roll Call, November 11-24 inclusive.

Carbon is Easy to Avoid With Shell Gasoline and Shell Motor Oil

Don't tolerate carbon any longer. It can easily be prevented from forming in harmful quantities. You need only use a properly balanced dry-burning gasoline together with the right kind of motor oil.

To take the first step toward overcoming carbon look to your gasoline. Be sure it is 400 "Extra Dry" Shell the wonder gasoline free from heavy, greasy particles which would dilute the crankcase oil and cause carbon to form. 400 "Extra Dry" Shell Gasoline vaporizes completely, burns cleanly and every atom is converted into power.

Select your motor oil with equal care unless the excess carbon has been removed from it at the refinery the heat of engine operation will cause this carbon to be deposited in your motor. Shell Motor Oil is rich in lubricating qualities and golden clear in color, for excess carbon and other impurities have been carefully extracted.

Use them both Shell Gasoline and Shell Motor Oil. Then you will obtain the full benefit of the extra power 400 "Extra Dry" Shell Gasoline gives because your engine will be clean and free from carbon deposited by impure motor oil. And your Golden Clear Shell Motor Oil will retain its body and lubricating qualities longer, being protected by an "extra dry" gasoline which prevents crankcase dilution.

To use Shell Gasoline and Shell Motor Oil costs you not one cent more. In fact, they save you money since their combined use gives you carbon-free performance from your car and a positive reduction in carbon-cleaning, repair and overhauling costs.

Any Shell Yellow-Red Service Station or Shell Dealer is ready to supply you with these Shell Quality Products, and to render an obliging service that will win your favor.

So this is what he took down: "Hands at hips, place one cup of flour on the shoulders, raise knees and depress toes and mix thoroughly in one-half cup of milk. Repeat six times. Inhale quickly one-half teaspoon of baking powder, lower the legs and mash two hard boiled eggs in a sieve, exhale, breathe naturally and sit into a bowl. Attention! Lie flat on the floor and roll the white of an egg backward and forward until it comes to a boil. In ten minutes remove from fire and rub smartly with a rough towel. Breathe naturally, dress in warm flannels and serve with fish soup."

Loss and Gain
When I compare
What I have lost with what I have gained,
What I have missed with what I have attained,
Little room do I find for pride.

I am aware
How many days have been idly spent,
How like an arrow with good intent
Has fallen short or been turned aside.

But who shall dare
To measure loss and gain in this wise?
Defeat may be victory in disguise;
The lowest ebb is the turn of the tide.

Tuesday morning a change was made in the "opening exercises." After the Scripture lesson by Mr. Hall, the literature class entertained us by reciting several selections from noted literary works. Doris Corsaut gave "Thanatopsis" by William Cullen Bryant. Keith Forbush gave "Portia's plea for mercy" taken from the "Merchant of Venice" by Shakespeare, and Olive Odell gave "The Fable" by Ralph Waldo Emerson. These selections were enjoyed by all.

The Botany class is making interesting microscopic observations of algae, cross sections of pine needles, stomata of geranium leaves and tissues of different plants. Miss Hawkes obtained the microscope, which was a pleasant surprise to the class.

Keith decided that he would like to become a Physicist so has enrolled in the Physics class. At the present time the class is studying "Change of State" which includes evaporation, boiling and freezing. This makes a very interesting study.

COLDS IN NOVEMBER

Figures collected from schools show that colds take heavy toll out of people's pockets and keep children out of school more than any other disease. Furthermore, a neglected cold is a frequent cause of pneumonia.

A cold may be caught in two ways. First, one may inhale or swallow the cold germ from direct contact with a person who has a cold, or from dry spittle, or by using dishes or other articles previously used by person who has a cold. Second, sudden or prolonged chilling of the body.

Most colds are extremely contagious. This is shown by how quickly a cold will travel from one member of the family to another.

Much could be done to lessen the frequency of colds if people would isolate themselves from others during the first few days, and if they would be very clean and careful to cover the nose and mouth when sneezing and coughing in public places, and equally careful not to spit in public places.

Protection of others from infection is all the more important, since some of the serious contagious diseases start with symptoms of a cold, as, for example, diphtheria, influenza, measles, scarlet fever, smallpox and whooping cough.

A cold in its first stage can often be checked by taking a hot drink and a hot bath before going to bed and keeping warm in bed for a day.

If a cold does not yield promptly to simple remedies, a doctor should be consulted.

In children, frequent colds are often found to be due to a diseased condition of the tonsils, or to adenoids.

If a child is continuously having colds one after another, or seems to have chronic infection of the nose, he should be examined at once to see if there is any underlying cause.

How to Keep From Taking Cold

1—Stay away from people with colds.

2—Train your skin to stand a change in temperature by frequent bathing.

3—Breathe through your nose.

4—Wash your hands before eating, and brush your teeth at least twice a day.

5—Sleep with open windows.

6—Keep your feet dry.

Children should know and understand:

a.—Colds are communicable.

b.—Colds should be regarded as acute illnesses.

c.—Good health habits, including good food habits, help to prevent colds.

d.—Good citizenship requires each one to guard against passing his cold along.

Ethel Keeran,
Public Health Nurse.

WALTONIAN PREXY BOOSTS MICHIGAN RECREATIONALLY

(By E. M. T. Service.)

H. A. Savage, Saginaw, state president of the Itasca Walton League, who knows his outdoor Michigan as well as anyone, on the occasion of a recent address told his auditors some interesting things. He said: "Michigan has more cover than we had 25 years ago. Michigan's resources are more valuable than ever before. Waste lands are more valuable now so far as monetary considerations are concerned."

"I have read in the Detroit News that the tourist business of Michigan in 1927 was worth $250,000,000. In ten years this would amount to $2,500,000,000 more money than all the timber of Michigan sold for. Timber money went to a few. Tourist and resort money today goes to many. There is not a single individual in the state of Michigan, the worker in the store, the professional man, the wholesale and retail merchant, who does not benefit directly or indirectly through this $250,000,000 of tourist business."

"So from the dollars and cents view we have in Michigan a greater asset than when Columbus discovered America."

"In Michigan there are more lakes and streams than in any other five states in the union combined, excluding Minnesota and Wisconsin."

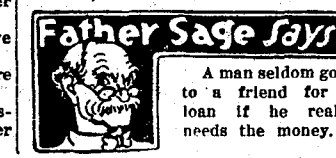

"Why do people come to Michigan? Because nature endowed our state with the things people want. Other states have plenty of fresh air and ozone, but they haven't the recreational resources which we have. Fifteen years ago scarcely anything was known of the tremendous recreational assets of Michigan. Today not a state in the country is talked of so much or looked forward to as the state of Michigan."

"We are going to appreciate the resources we have more and more. We are going to stop lamenting the fact that some of the things we had are gone and we are going to awaken to the fact that our lands today are of greater value than ever."

TRY THIS

The other day, according to information reaching this office, a pedlar selling silk hosiery stopped at a door in the community and started to interview the housewife. As soon as he came to a point the lady said, "Say, you are just the man I am looking for, come in and sit down." The pedlar with visions of a good-sized order sank down into the cushions of the easiest chair in the parlor. Then the lady said, "Now I am on the finance committee of our church and I know how much you are interested in our local enterprises and I am going to let you make a subscription to the pastor's salary. I am so glad you dropped in this morning." The pedlar swallowed his Adam's apple two or three times, spattered around to get his words and then said, "Well, you see, lady, I do not live here. My home is in Detroit, and the family gives something to the church there, so I guess you will have to pass me up." The lady continued to urge a contribution to the support of the pastor, but she did not get it and as soon as he could get away the young man bowed himself out. The incident is interesting. Building up a village or city is a community effort. The place where we live is built up as we all co-operate. The pedlar who drops in, gathers up all the orders he can for merchandise and then departs, is not one of the co-operators. The more pedlars and the more business they do, the poorer we become as a community.

The next time a pedlar rings your doorbell, sound him on the church subscription proposition.

A Thought for The Week
"Where does the church stand on such a question?" is very often the query which calls for an answer. The conference report is very suggestive, and we desire to quote from it. This week we give the church view of the Sermon on the Mount. The Sermon on the Mount is the constitution of the Kingdom of God. It transforms legalism into an inward law of spiritual ethics. It is the church of Christ should accept the teachings and apply it to all life, the world of to-day would be transformed from Babylon into the holy New Jerusalem. Christian holiness demands the application of Christianity to every element in human life, redeems the baseness of business, the impurity of politics, and the selfishness of social relationships.

Next week we will give the church view on Industrial Questions.

It is well to remember that these statements are from the report adopted by our Detroit Conference in 1927.
